

Week 2

Games of the Week

Roman at Brooklyn Poly Prep, Sat, 7:00PM – Well, Roman went to Brooklyn to take on Brooklyn Poly Prep and Bialal Lewis Sloan-El ran all over the home team, racking up 262 rushing yards on only 18 carries (4 TDs). Roman scored 35 and only gave up 14 as they came back from NY with a 2-0 record.

Don Bosco (N.J.) at SJ Prep (Plymouth-Whitemarsh), Sat, 7:00PM – Don Bosco, like North Penn last week, figured out how to stop the mighty Prep offense. Shut down Jamir Livingston and the ground game and make the Prep pass. For the second straight week, Prep QB Aaron Haas threw for over 200 yards (3 TDs this week), but in both games it wasn't enough, as Bosco beat the Prep by a score of 34-20.

Other Games to See

O'Hara at North Penn, Fri 7:30PM – O'Hara tried for a repeat of last year's shut out of North Penn. But, they didn't count on two things to get in their way. First, North Penn is a much better team this season and second, O'Hara just couldn't seem to stop the big play. Most of North Penn's success on offense was due to O'Hara's inability to keep up with the mis-direction in the North Penn backfield. And, when they found the back with the ball, they failed to make the early tackle, as North Penn pulled away in the second half, scoring 16 unanswered points to beat the Lions by 30-16

Judge at Northeast, Fri, 6:00PM – This game has been a pretty good game to watch the past few years. But this year, it was downright ugly, as the Crusaders limited Northeast to -20 yards rushing, cruising to a 38-7 win at Northeast.

Frankford at Pennsbury, Fri 7:00PM – For the 4th straight year, Frankford was defeated by Pennsbury; this time, Pennsbury won by a score of 26-6. Frankford's offense rushed for 176 yards, but only managed to find the end zone once.
