

Week 7

Games of the Week

O'Hara at SJ Prep (Ply.-Whitemarsh), Sat 1:00pm – Personally, I don't think this will be much of a game. I've seen each team three times and from what I've seen, Prep should smoke O'Hara. But, because many people still believe that O'Hara is one of the top teams in the PCL Red, I've added this game as a Game of the Week.

La Salle at N. Catholic (Frankford), Sat 1:00pm – LaSalle is the defending PCL Red champ and North was a semi-finalist in 2006. But, both teams are still fighting for a playoff spot this season and this game will pretty much put one team in with the other team struggling down the stretch. These teams have played every year since 1958, with LaSalle winning the last 20 in a row. If there is ever a year where the Falcons could end that streak, this is the year. Should be a good game to see.

Other Games to See

Frankford at Northeast, Sat 7:00pm – Like the Prep/O'Hara game above, this one is better on paper than it is in real life. Frankford is still one of the top two teams in the PPL, but Northeast has slipped a bit and should struggle in this game. But, this is the premiere game in the Philly Pub this week.

Bok at Franklin, Thurs 3:00pm – This game will pretty much decide who wins the Philly Pub AAA division. Since joining the PIAA, Bok has won this division every year. Both teams are 6-0 in league play and they have scored a similar amount of point (Bok – 208 and Franklin 209). Both teams are stingy on defense during league play (Bok – 20 points allowed to Franklin's 60). This game will decide whether or not Bok is the only team worthy or if the Franklin team can dethrone what has been the class of AAA ball in Philly to date.
