

Week 9

Games of the Week

Northeast at Washington, Friday 3:00pm – Both of my top games this week are Philly Pub games which directly affect the make up of the playoffs for this season. In this game, it's a simple formula; the winner wins the Red Division title. Look to Washington to win this game, and with the recent elimination of Frankford from the playoffs due to using an ineligible player, win the Pub Championship.

Dobbins at Germantown, Friday 6:00pm – This game also features two Pub Red teams, but unlike the game above, this one is for survival. The winner makes the playoffs and loser goes home empty handed. Before yesterday, both of these teams were all but eliminated, but due to the situation with Frankford, both are still alive. Dobbins should win this game and make some noise in the playoffs, but being the Philly Pub, you never know.

Other Games to See

Archbishop Ryan at N. Catholic (Northeast), Saturday 7:00pm – This game was picked to continue the theme this week; playoff implications. The winner is practically guaranteed a playoff spot and the loser would need help; a lot of help. This one is too close to call.

Conwell-Egan at Neumann-Goretti (Penn Wood), Sunday 1:00pm – Our final game of the week also pits two teams struggling for their post season life. The winner clinches a playoff spot and the loser will be all but eliminated. With all of the turmoil at Neumann-Goretti this year, I have to go with Conwell-Egan to win this game.
